COAL MINE HORROR.

Seven Miners Killed in the Coal Mines of the Lehigh Valley Coal Mining
Company.

They Were Crushed to Death Beneath Three Loaded Cars.
Sad Scene at the Mines
Today.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 5.—Seven miners were killed this morning in the pits of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co. Three loaded coal cars fell down a shaft 350 feet deep and crushed the men. The scenes about the mouth of the shaft were most pitiful when the fate of the seven men became known.

SEWERAGE COMMITTEE.

Meeting Held Last Night. Chairman Instructed to Negotiate With Contractor White.

The sewerage committee and City Attorney R. T. Lightfoot met last night at the city hall to consider the matter of completing the pumping station of the sewerage.
Contractor White has refused to complete it because of changes desired by the committee, for which he claims he will be entitled to extra pay to the amount of $250.
He submitted to the committee last night a proposition, through the chairman, Mr. Elliott, agreeing to finish the work conditionally for $250.
The committee finally instructed the chairman to write Mr. White and draw up a contract with him, according to his demands, in part at least.
The $250 will be paid, but all the things he demands will not be granted.

Monday at 8 a. m. for Cairo. She arrives tonight from Mount City, and her new wheel will be put on her tomorrow.

Dave Mantz, engineer on the City of Sheffield, came up in town this morning while the boat was laying at the wharf. Several of his many friends were "laying" for him, but as he does not "smile," as in the days of yore, their accustomed greeting was not so genial.

The steamer Tennessee arrived from Tennessee river last night with the "boss trip." She carries, late this evening on her return trip.

Capt. Michael Dougherty, shore boss of W. H. Brown & Son's towboat line, was seriously injured last Thursday at Pittsburg by falling into an empty coal barge. He is 42 years of age, injured internally, and on account of his advanced age, his wounds may prove fatal. Capt. Dougherty is well known on the river from Pittsburg to New Orleans.

The John S. Hopkins was "off her base" a few hours today, being detained by a large amount of way business between here and Evansville.

WM. ADAY HURT.

William Aday got his right hand caught in a wagon this afternoon, and one finger was cut off, and there is a prospect of others having to be amputated. Dr. Pendley was called and dressed the injury. It was only a short time ago that Aday was run over by an ice wagon while seized with an attack of epilepsy.

POLICE COURT.

Only a Few Cases For Trial Before Judge Sanders.

A motion for a new trial was this morning made by Attorney Dave Cross in the case against Maud Yelt-man, fined $50 and costs the other day in that court for assaulting a sewing machine agent who went to her home and attempted to take possession of a sewing machine without due process of law. It was overruled, and the plaintiff asked and was granted an appeal, provided she can execute the necessary bond.

The young men, for a breach of the peace, were fined $5 and costs and recognized for their good behavior for a period of twelve months.
A case against Annie Mack, colored, was dismissed.
One bay colt was ordered sold, being caught running at large.

NEW COMPANY.

Will Own Owensboro Wharfbort, Giving Free Wharfage to All.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 5.—There is every reason for believing the local wharfbort will become the property of the Louisville & Evansville Packet Company.

Under the new regime the wharf-boat will be used as the railroad depots are. All shipments will be delivered on the wharf, and there will be no charges for wharfage. The drayage will be an independent matter, and each consignee can haul his own goods or get anyone else to do it. Heretofore all shipments have been made to the store door, the wharfbort company doing the hauling.

The packet company will have 11 own employees in charge of the wharf-boat. The present arrangement is for Capt. G. W. Crutcher to manage the business.

CAUSED BY FINANCIAL TROUBLES

Was the Suicide of Maj. George F. Barnes Last Night. He Took a Large Quantity of Morphine.

HIS ACTION LEARNED TOO LATE.

Left a Note Assigning as the Cause of His Terrible Act Financial Embarrassment and Death of His Daughter.

THE DECEASED WAS 62 YEARS OF AGE.

Major George F. Barnes, of West Jefferson street, the ex-councilman and contractor, committed suicide last evening by taking 30 grains of morphine in a pint of whiskey. The news of the shocking deed was a great surprise to his many friends, as he was on the streets yesterday apparently in good health and spirits.
Yesterday afternoon he went to a drug store on Broadway and purchased 15 grains of morphine, and perhaps a similar amount was purchased elsewhere. When interrogated relative to what he wanted with so much, by the druggist, he replied that it was for a sick horse.

He was one of the hackers of the city, and he was announced to take place at the grounds, but instead of going out yesterday, went to the southwestern portion of the city, where he was doing some work on the Katter-john "Bill," near Katterjohn's brickyard.

He approached a colored foreman at 2 o'clock, and according to reports showed him a bottle of whiskey and without further ado drank the contents of the bottle, and told the man that he was going to lie down under a tree nearby, and when he, the foreman, got ready to leave, to take him away.

The druggist about 5 o'clock went to the train and found him helpless, with the almost empty bottle beside him. He was still conscious, however, and told the man not to take him home, as he did not want his wife to see him in that condition, and the negro supposed that he was under the influence of the liquor, and conveyed him by wagon to a room in the major's stable, near Eighth and Trimble streets. Before they reached the stable the major informed the colored man that he had drunk 30 grains of opium in the whiskey. At the stable the major threw himself across a bed, and the negro left him.

He went back once or twice, and each time found him still under the influence, as he thought, of the whiskey. About 8 o'clock he came to the conclusion that something was wrong, and went for Druggist Breed-en, who soon arrived and made an examination, seeing from the pupil of the eye and his blackening face, that Maj. Barnes was under the influence of some powerful opiate.
He sent the negro for a doctor, and Dr. Elliott and Brooks were soon there. They at once gave it as their opinion that there was no hope for the patient, but used the stomach pump and tried every other means to resuscitate him. Surrounded by his family and several friends, he passed away at 1 o'clock, never being conscious after the doctors arrived.

The deceased was one of Paducah's most prominent Republicans and citizens, and a contractor of considerable experience. He was born in Davidson county, Tenn., in 1836, and when young came with his parents to Marshall county. He was married here to Mrs. Maria Harrison in 1865, and leaves besides a wife, two daughters, Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. James Elliott, and a sister, Mrs. James Crow, wife of the well known policeman.

He was a member of the Fifteenth Kentucky cavalry during the first year of the war, and afterwards was a major in the Twelfth infantry, Third battalion. After the war he was deputy internal revenue collector for this district. He was a member of the coal firm Barnes & Elliott, and was one of the best known contractors in the county.

The note he left was written on the paper in which the drug was purchased, and after stating this fact, recited that he had no domestic trouble, but took his life because of financial embarrassment and the death nearly two years ago of his daughter, Miss Della. He closed by invoking the mercy of God for his deed, and added a post-script to take care of his little grandson.

The deceased was a good, conscientious man, and highly esteemed by all who knew him. His friends were numbered by the hundred, and among them are not only his old comrades at arms in the union army, but the men who fought on the other side as well, and for whom he always showed the highest regard and friendship. Major Barnes' death was a great shock to his friends, who would never have selected him as a man who would take trouble so much to heart as to end his life because of it, and who greatly deplore his sad demise. The family have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.
The deceased was a member of but one secret order, the Knights of Honor.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of the deceased on West Jefferson street, Judge Tully to conduct the services. The burial will take place at Oak Grove.

MADE A HIT.

"Side Tracked" at Morton's Opera House Tonight.

The Nashville American of Wednesday has the following to say of "Side Tracked," which appears at Morton's opera house tonight:

"Jule Walters' play, 'Side Track-ed,' has been presented in Nashville many times and is as popular now as it was the first time it was seen here.
The audience at the Grand last night came very near the crowded house mark, and the large number of people present gave themselves up to unrestrained hilarity. The tramp of the stage and of the comic papers seems to appeal strongly to the humorous side of American human nature. In 'Side Tracked' the tramp furnishes the fun for the audience, and the rest of the cast undertake some serious complications that serve to reflect to intensity the wit and ingenuity of the gentlemen of leisure.
Horus Xerxes Booh is the tramp in this play, and the audience was convulsed with laughter over his funny parts. What more could a manager desire? The specialties were well received.

Coroner Phelps went out this morning about 8 o'clock and held an inquest over the remains. The evidence was strictly in accordance with the above, and the verdict, after the examination of two witnesses, was that he died from the effects of morphine poisoning, administered by his own hand.

Major Barnes yesterday joined the Commercial club, which might indicate that he had no intention of taking his life as late as noon yesterday.

ENLARGED YARDS.

Reported That the Old Round House and Paint Shops Will Be Razed.

Possible Improvements Which May Result From The Reported Changes.

An important change is contemplated in the Illinois Central yards here sometime in the near future, if authoritative reports are to be relied upon. It is said on good authority that the changes have been recommended by some of the chief officials of the road, and will doubtless meet with the approval of those in authority.

These changes are to tear away the old round house and paint shop in the freight yard, now useless, and build tracks where they stand.
Should this be done, it would afford a larger yard, and would result eventually in the freight house, now near Broadway and the railroad, being moved back some little distance, and tracks run through it in true metropolitan style.

While it is believed the work will be done, it is not known how soon, but it is thought sometime in the near future.

NEWS SUMMARY.

The Hon. Charles Offutt, who in 1883-4 and 1885-6 was speaker of the house of representatives of the Kentucky general assembly, shot and killed himself at Omaha Wednesday afternoon while temporarily deranged by long illness.

An official order has been issued detailing the Eighth cavalry, Fifteenth infantry and Third Georgia infantry to occupy Nueces and Puerto Prieta about November 22.

Brig. Gen. Carpenter has been assigned to command the brigade. It is expected that the Spanish troops will complete the evacuation of the province by November 20.

Surgeon Hartsuff tells the war investigating commission that most of the trouble about the care of the sick at Camp Thomas was due to the defects of the division hospital system as established by order of Secretary Alger, at the expense of the regimental hospitals and over the protests of surgeons.

In the parade at the white men's rally at Wilmington, N. C., Thursday, three or four hundred men wore red shirts and many carried Winchester rifles. Earnest speeches were made for the abolition of negro rule. The negroes are still threatening to put up a ticket on election day.

Attorney John Poland has filed a petition for a restraining order in the case of Judge Gaffey, of the appellate court, recently handed down a decision upholding the separate coach law.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

The congressional election next Tuesday is in some respects the most important that has ever been held in this district; not because of the part which the candidate chosen in the First district will play in congress, but because of the one leading issue before the people. Messrs. Wheeler and Reeves are at variance on the Goebel election law, a law which deals a fatal stroke to the liberties of the people and to their inalienable rights—a free ballot and a fair count.

Hon. Charles K. Wheeler, the present democratic congressman from this district and who is seeking a reelection, fully endorses this most infamous measure and is a complete and unreasoning convert to Goebelism in all of its features.

On the other hand Mr. Reeves is opposed to the Goebel election law. He has taken his stand fearlessly and honestly on the side of the people.

The party that he represents is fighting the Goebel election law all over Kentucky today. It has made common cause with the honest and fair minded people of Kentucky to blot from the statute books the most flagrant outrage that has ever been perpetrated against the suffrage of a free people.

As between Wheeler and Reeves there is absolutely no choice for the voter who believes in the sanctity of the ballot. Mr. Wheeler stands for Goebelism; Mr. Reeves stands for a free ballot and an honest count. In this contest political lines should be obliterated and each voter when he enters the booth to cast his vote on Tuesday next, whether silver democrat, republican, populist or gold democrat, should vote as his conscience and his patriotism direct. Goebelism is the arch enemy of free institutions, it recognizes no master save the unbridled lust for office of the author of the Goebel election law,—the wishes and the rights of the people are never considered.

Senator Goebel in his defense of the Election law which bears his name, at Glasgow Oct. 18, said: "It has been asserted that the new law makes the judgment of the county or district contest board conclusive in contested election cases and deprives the citizen of an appeal to the courts. No grosser falsehood was ever uttered. The new law leaves in full force every section, line and letter of the former law giving an appeal first to the circuit court and then to the court of appeals from the judgment of a county or district contest board."

In a recent letter to the Louisville Post, Hon. Charles Finley, secretary of state for Kentucky, fully and completely shows that the above statement of Senator Goebel is false in every particular and that there is absolutely NO APPEAL from the decision of the county, district or state board of election contest under the Goebel election law, thus most surely and effectively depriving the people of any appeal from a fraudulent election count.

Section 12 of the new Election law refers to the state contest board and in part is as follows:

"Said state board of election commissioners, or any two of them, shall be a board for determining the contested election of any officer other than governor or lieutenant governor, elective by the voters of the whole state, or of a judge or clerk of the court of appeals, circuit judge or commonwealth's attorney."

Further along in the same section it is provided: "THE DECISION OF THE BOARD SHALL BE FINAL AND CONCLUSIVE."

The section which immediately follows refers to county contest boards. It runs as follows: "The county board of election commissioners, or any two of them, shall be a board in each county with like powers as those mentioned in the next preceding section, for determining the contested election of any officer elective by the voters of the county or any district therein except members of the general assembly."

What does that section mean when it says the county contest board shall have "like powers" as the state board, "for determining the contested election of any officer elective by the voters of the county," unless it be that its decision shall be "final and conclusive."

Section 16 of the new law says: "All acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are, to the extent of such conflict, repealed."

This makes the new law paramount. Wherever the old law conflicts with it the old law must give way; it is expressly to the extent of the conflict repealed.

The old law provided for a county contest board consisting of the county judge and two magistrates; but the decision of this board was not final and conclusive, for section 1536 of the old law provided: "Any person in interest feeling himself aggrieved by the decision of the board shall have the right to appeal from the decision to the circuit court of the county in which such contestant resides, and from thence to the court of appeals, as in other cases." Under the old law, the decision of the county contest board was not final.

Thus Mr. Finley shows that the decisions of the Goebel election boards are final. Any defeated candidate may be never so sure of the fact that his defeat was compassed by fraud, will have absolutely no appeal. The county board of contest is absolute in its power. It is appointed by the state board at Frankfort. The people of the county have absolutely no voice in the selection of their election officers, no part in the counting of the votes, the results are declared by the county board, and from their decision there is no appeal. However flagrant the fraud that determined the result may have been, the defeated candidate is without redress, and the courts are closed to his appeal for justice.

Such is Goebelism—Such is the operation of the Goebel election law.

This measure Mr. Wheeler vigorously supports. Mr. Reeves as vigorously opposes it.

The honest and fair minded voters of the First congressional district who believe in the sanctity of popular elections, who value the fair name of our district and the honor of old Kentucky, must in unmistakable terms declare their opposition to the Goebel election law, and this can only be done by defeating Charles K. Wheeler for congress on Tuesday next.

A vote for Reeves is a vote for the purity of the ballot box, without which there is no permanency for republican institutions.

A PLAY FOR MONEY.

General Belief That the Philippine Question Will Be Settled on a Money Basis.

Spain Will Probably Demand $150,000,000 But Will Not Get That Vast Sum.

Paris, Nov. 3.—In view of the refusal yesterday of the Spanish peace commissioners to accept the Philippine proposition made by the United States on Monday, both sides now accept the idea of a money consideration in the settling of the Philippine question, and that the only point of difference will be in the amount. The Spaniards will ask $150,000,000. The American commissioners, it is thought, will demand, proposing to give $50,000,000. The Spaniards probably will demand the amount large enough and will demand more. Then possibly there will be a compromise on a sum slightly in excess of that first offered. Such is thought to be the program of the next meeting or two, in the Quai d'Orsay chamber. The fact is, this is the final outcome that has been in the minds of both parties ever since the beginning of negotiations, but the Spaniards all along have been fighting for better terms than they were willing to accept as a last resource, while the Americans have been striving with equal skill and obstinacy to get along without yielding anything.

The hope of securing some hard cash has not been the only motive that has influenced the poor Spaniard in favor of the abandoning of the Philippines. It has been clear for a long time that the European capitalists, convinced that the islands are lost forever to Spain, have preferred that the United States should have the archipelago. On a small scale the case resembles the ever-recurring proposed partition of Turkey. Each nation jealous of the other is as much opposed to carrying out the partition as to making a division of the ottoman empire. To be sure, in a partition each might get an island or two, but all agree that the safest course is to let America take the whole group.

The remarkable political perspicacity of the British nation stands out clearly in this matter. From the start Great Britain has advocated the annexation by America of the Philippine archipelago, and the whole continent is now swinging around to the same view. Even thoughtful Spaniards, and especially the members of the Spanish peace commission, are of the same opinion, preferring that distant America have the islands rather than the neighboring rival nations of Europe.

A useful present for a gentleman is a cigar set of silver, consisting of a cigar holder, a cigar cutter, a matchbox and a cigar case. The articles are ornamented with gold tracery and are packed in a small plush lined leather case.

SHOPPING.

She screamed in terror when her purse was snatched from out her jeweled hand.

And hurried a modest semi-course Toward the fleeing, bold brigand:

And when the copper caught the thief, She seized the purse with anxious air.

And breathed a sigh of sweet relief To find her treasures all were there:

A penciled note Her fellow wrote: A sugar plum, A wad of gum, A hairpin (bent), A copper cent, A buttonhook, With broken crook, A safety pin, A curly tin, A powder rag, A sachet bag.

These were the treasures which she bore.

Around with her from store to store While on a shopping tour to see The many pretty things which she Would love to buy if she but had The cash, and, with a smile so glad It almost made the copper sneeze, She thanked him, and with sprightly ease.

Tripped on to seek another store Or two where she could shop some more.

An External Tonic Applied to the Skin. Beautifies it by Magic. THE DISCOVERY OF AGE

Many preparations intended to beautify the complexion have failed, since they do not produce a tonic effect on the skin. Because the Misses Bell's Complexion Tonic has such an effect, it succeeds where all other cosmetics invariably fail. The great remedy, discovered by the Misses Bell, the eminent complexion specialists, of No. 78 Fifth Avenue, New York City, carries off all impurities, which the blood forces to the surface of the body. It is exhilarating and vitalizing wherever applied. Freckles, pimples, blackheads, moths, patches, wrinkles, liver spots, roughness, and all other skin eruptions disappear, and the skin becomes soft and rosy as a baby's.

The Misses Bell's new book, "Secrets of Beauty," is sent free. It tells how a woman can gain and keep a good complexion. Special chapters on the care of the hair, how to preserve its color and lustre, even to an advanced age. Also how to get rid of superfluous hair on the neck and arms with out injury to the skin. This valuable book will be mailed today address on request. Correspondence cordially solicited. Address:

WAH-PAH-SHO-SHO.

The Osage Chief Is an Interesting Character.

Down in the Osage nation several miles east of Ponca City lives an old Indian named Wah-pah-sho-sho, who is noted throughout the country as a man of unusual shrewdness and political ability. Wah-pah-sho-sho did not absorb civilization as rapidly as some of his people, and for some time this kept him from becoming a leader in the affairs of his tribe. But, being by nature a statesman and seeing at last what kept him from his rightful place, he decided, like a great many statesmen with lighter skins, to conceal his real thought about the matter and to espouse a popular custom.

So, almost before his rivals could realize what was happening, Wah-pah-sho-sho had arrayed himself in a $15 suit of store clothes, had his hair cut, built a box house for himself and his favorite wife, bought two red plush chairs and a cooking stove and then plunged into the political affairs of the nation, to emerge some time later as the recognized leader of his people. To-day there is not a more respected and trusted man in the territory.

He owns a ranch of 640 acres, and there is not a better cultivated piece of land in the country. His five wives look after the farm in his absence, and even the old chief is not averse to taking a hand in the field when not attending native councils or otherwise looking after his political interests. It must be confessed, however, that his chief labor at home consists in overseeing the work of others engaged.

When I visited the ranch a few days ago Wah-pah-sho-sho was preparing to harvest his broad acres of wheat. His eldest wife had succeeded in attaching six wiry mustangs to a binder and was driving around the field with the air of a conqueror, while three of the other squaws were trudging in the sun, shucking up the bundles of grain. Wah-pah-sho-sho and his favorite spouse sat on the veranda of the house watching the proceedings with an approving air.

The old chief received me affably and after watching the harvesters until satisfied that the grain would be properly cared for he conducted me about the ranch, exhibiting everything of interest, from his youngest papoose up to a large herd of Berkshire pigs, of which he is very proud. He informed me that more money could be made from hogs than from any other domestic animals. Last year he marketed a herd of 150 swine, and he assured me that he had cleared 50 per cent. on the deal. Wah-pah-sho-sho owns a herd of 60 ponies, but from the appearance of the animals and the care given them it is evident that the old chief has little faith in the horse market. He also possesses a large bunch of cattle, which his sons keep on grazing lands in the southern portion of the nation.

Wah-pah-sho-sho told me with some pride that his wives made enough last year from their chickens and turkeys pay for the living expenses of the family, and he hinted that there were few white women who could say as much. But he ignored the fact that living expenses on an Indian ranch are different from those of a white man's household.

When Wah-pah-sho-sho attends Indian gatherings he wears a white collar and necktie and smokes cigars like an ordinary politician, and the younger element of the tribe regard him as quite a progressive man, but when at home or when traveling in remote sections of the country he dons a blanket and moccasins in winter; in summer when at the ranch he is not troubled with too many clothes. This makes him very popular with his less civilized contemporaries. Another thing that makes Wah-pah-sho-sho a favorite with the older element of his tribe is his refusal to discard any of his wives. The old bucks do not take kindly to the one squaw idea. As he never takes any of his spouses except the favorite on his journeys, few of his more civilized admirers know that he has four others at home, so he tactfully manages to retain his influence with both classes.

While we were walking about the ranch Wah-pah-sho-sho conversed intelligently on a number of subjects of public importance, and his views do not differ from those of the ordinary white man. But it was when the war was mentioned that all the Indian nature in the old chief came to the surface. His little black eyes glittered when we spoke of battles, and his hands worked nervously, as if fingering imaginary scalp locks. Wah-pah-sho-sho said he was eager to go to war. He declared he could raise a company of Indian soldiers in three days' time if he were given a commission. Only they must have Indian officers. They wished to be governed by men of their own race. He said the government need not be afraid to trust the Indians with arms.

They would fight for their country with a greater zest than some white men.

The queer part about it, Wah-pah-sho-sho would take his wives with him to war, and said the other Indians would do the same. "Squaws heap fight!" he exclaimed, dropping into Indian English in his excitement. "Carry gun; shoot; no eat, no sleep while fight last; pack food, make fire and look after bucks."

PURCELL & THOMPSON.

The told me wonderful tales of the bravery of the squaws in Indian wars. His own mother had been with his father during a battle with her papoose strapped to her back, and had proved as good a warrior as her husband.

As I was leaving the ranch I ventured to ask the squaws if they would care to go to war, and their emphatic affirmatives left me wondering if it would not be a novel sight to see some of those old Spanish dons who have been circulating in Spain most wonderful stories of insurrections in the United States confronted with a few troops of both sexes of the very people they had reported as revolting.—St. Louis Republic.

STAND UP STRAIGHT.

And So Enjoy Good Health and the Best of Spirits.

Stand up as you ought to stand and you can prolong your life and enjoy good health, the best of spirits and good morals.

If you are subject to dyspepsia, nervousness, depression, insomnia, incipient consumption, rheumatism, sick headache or neuralgia, stand up correctly and be cured.

Prominent physicians say that ten minutes' correct standing every day will work miracles in a nervous, ailing, depressed man or woman. From ten-minute periods the patient should gradually prolong the time until he can stand properly for half an hour without suffering. By that time the crowded, ill-used, depleted internal organs are beginning to show the effects of the new and good position regularly assumed, the jaded nerves are commencing to recover tone, the missing appetite comes back and the lungs have increased their capacity and strength considerably.

When this happens the patient usually makes a determined effort to stand properly all the time; shortly after he or she is a well man or woman, no matter how nervous or dyspeptic the original condition may have been, and all this has been accomplished without a drop or an ounce of medicine.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.
